ANOTHER VICTIM.

AN UNKNOWN MAN STRUCK BY THE TRAIN.

And Instantly Killed By Having His Head Entirely Crushed by a Brakebeam.

Another Victim.

Last evening as the six fifteen West Berkeley local from Sh ll Mound Park was approaching the Delaware street station the engineer noticed a man walking up the track. He at once pulled his whistle and gave several sharp toots and the man stepped over on to the next track. The train was running very slowly at this time as the engineer had slowed down just as soon as he noticed the man. When the engine approached him and just as the cowcatcher had passed him he pitched forward and was struck by the forward tracks just behind the cowcatcher and his head was crushed in and his brains scattered along the the track.

Just previous to the accident, the man was in Osterman's saloon, where he tried to buy a drink. As he was drunk the proprietor refused to sell him one, telling him that he had enough. The man then started up the track and a few minutes afterwards was struck by the train.

The coroner was immediately notified, and he arrived shortly afterward and removed the body to the morgue. It is not known who the man is, but the editor of this paper thinks that he recognized him as George Barnstead, at one time a resident of San Bernardino. Nothing was found on his person to indicate who he was. He is evidently a man of about 50 years of age, with dark hair and beard plentifully sprinkled with grey.

The Coroner will probably hold an inquest on the body sometime tomorrow.

The Chicago Lady Quartette.

This excellent musical combination appeared last evening at Shattuck Hall before a very small but appreciative audience who enjoyed every part of the program and are to be envied by those who were not present for it is seldom that Berkeley is visited by such artists as compose this quartette.

The curtain arose a few minutes after 8 o'clock, and from that moment until the close the audience enjoyed a rare musical treat.

The quartette was composed of Mrs. Raymond, Miss Jones, Miss Hodson and Miss Ludwig, and they gave five selections during the evening and responded to two encores.

The different members also rendered solos each one of which was encored. Their voices are all exceedingly well trained. Miss Jackson entertained the audience with several recitations which were very amusing.

It is to be regretted that there was not a larger audience present. There has been so many entertainments following one upon another that the people are a little tired, and thus they miss very often an entertainment that they would have given much to have attended.

Talented Young Ladies.

The Young Ladies' String Quartet, consisting of Miss Charlotte Gruenhagen, Miss Mabel Crabtree, Miss May Barrington and Miss Anee Barrington, was given a testimonial musicale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keeler of Berkeley, last Saturday night. The quartet will give a "musical evening" at the Young Men's Christian Association Auditorium, Oakland, tonight. They will be assisted by Mrs. Olive Reed, contralto solist; Miss Maud Noble, trombonist; and Misses Jettie Keith and Pearl Noble, cornetists.

The Congregational Club of San Francisco will meet on Tuesday next at the First Congregational Church in Oakland. The theme "Civic Duties" will be exemplified by William Carey Jones of the State University, Rev. E. R. Dille and David Starr Jordan, President of the Stanford Uuiversity.

The report that Dole, the Stanford pole vaulter, broke the Coast record last Saturday has been found to be false. Dole was credited with having gone 10 feet 7 1-2 inches, which would be two inches above the record, which is held by A. Cheek, a student at the Oakland High School. The standards registered the distance given, but the crossbar drooped several inches, and, according to the rules, the distance must be taken from the middle of the crosspiece. This leaves the record still in Cheek's hands.

Wednesday evening the first preliminary debate for places on the university team was held at Stiles Hall. There were thirteen contestants, from whom the following six were chosen: J. O'Connor, J. M. Oliver, W. N. Friend, T. de Laguna, H. T. Miller and F. H. Dam. On March 18th these six and M. C. Flaherty, who was on last year's team, will meet on the rostrum, when the three men who will represent the University against Stanford will be chosen. The judges were President Kellogg, Professors L. T. Hengetter, L. L. Syle, A. F. Lange, E. B. McGilvray and E. L. Hood.

HUNTING FOR GOLD.

FIFTY YOUNG MEN GO TO ALASLA FROM OAKLAND.

Mrs. Alice Brown Who Died Recently in West Berkeley Leaves a Very Short Will.

Off Hunting For Gold.

A party comprising about 60 young men from Oakland, left San Francisco this morning on the steamer Pueblo for the Yukon gold fields in Alaska. The party is organized by Capt. Johnson, who plans the entire trip. Each man pays $20 at the outset and takes sufficient provisions with him to last six months; 700 pounds of baggage is allowed to each man; the expense of the entire trip is expected to be about $250, including return passage. As soon as they reach land they will take sleds and go 400 miles into the interior They then strike the Yukon river and go up the river about 40 miles to the gold fields. They will stay there about six months, or as long as the weather permits.

During this time each man expects to find, if he is lucky, from $3,000 to $10,000 worth of gold. There is no expense attached to the gold finding, as it is all free gold, and all that needs to be done is to wash it. Captain Johnson says that last year the men cleared several thousands of dollars in the few months they were able to remain in the district. This year the party expects to arrive in time for the earliest possible start to the gold fields. Many hardships will, of course, have to be endured, but the men are prepared for this. Each man is expected to take enough money to pay his return expenses if his prospecting proves a failure.

Left all to "Joe."

Joseph Devon applied yesterday to the Superior Court in Oakland for letters of administration upon the estate of his aunt, Alice Brown, who died in Berkeley on February 26th last. She left property worth $1300. A search for a will revealed a note which reads as follows:

Sunday, April 28, 1895.—If I die before Joe comes back, I leave him everything—all my property and money. Joe, pray for me, and God bless you.

ALICE BROWN.

The document was filed as the holographic will of the decedent.

Will Keep His Gold.

Carrie Judd Montgomery and her husband, George Montgomery, refuse to join the seceding Booths, and will hold Beulah Park, the city, under the the Salvationists in this city banner of the regular army.

Ballington Booth and his [illegible] Booth, quarreled in a quiet way with the Montgomerys, and they parted [illegible] tranged. The trouble was about "hallelujah gold." George Montgomery is a millionaire, and he has contributed a great deal of money to the cause of the Salvation Army. His wife, Carrie Judd Montgomery built homes and formed a settlement at Beulah, which is now the headquarters of the Salvationists in this county.

Ballington Booth and his wife suggested to the Montgomerys that they could best serve the Lord by turning over their estate to the Salvation Army, the money to be used in prosecuting the work of the soldiers in various parts of the Country. This request meant that the millionaire should part with his "hallelujah mines," his farms and his summer resort up the country. In order to be a true and loyal soldier it was suggested to him that he had no right to be rich, but that he should part with all he had for the benefit of the army. It had been pointed out that people who had joined the army had parted with their riches for the good of the cause.

George Montgomery and his wife looked at the matter in a different light. They did not believe that in order to be loyal Salvationists it was necessary to part with their hallelujah property, and they refused to accede to the suggestion of General Ballington Booth. The Montgomerys believed that they could be just as loyal to the army with their riches as they could without them, so they decided to handle their estate in their own way.

When Mrs. Maud Booth made her trip to this Coast she did not receive the Montgomerys with open arms. Neither were the Montgomerys anxious to receive her. Although the latter were the leading Salvationists in this city they were not prominent at the lectures of Mrs. Booth. Now that the break in the Salvation Army has come, the Montgomerys decline to show any sympathy for the seceders. They announce that Beulah, with all its homes, will remain loyal to the new commander, and the work in this city will be continued just the same.

The "hallelujah mines" will still remain under the control of the Montgomerys, and they will prosecute the work just the same as they have done in the past. Montgomery and his wife have spent thousands of dollars in building homes for the Salvation Army people, and have in contemplation many improvements for the future.

Hart's Side of the Story.

John Hart, the University janitor, who has been sued by his wife for a divorce, is greatly pained, so he says, over the allegations of cruelty in Mrs. Hart's complaint. He has taken legal advice as to the best course to pursue and says that while he is not over anxious to bring scandal into his household, he will defend the suit and if necessary release the family skeletons for the benefit of the public and to vindicate himself.

He says the discord in his domestic circles is due to his wife's relatives, who have a penchant for feeding at his larder and slumbering beneath his roof. He does not mind such things occasionally, but when three brothers-in-law and three sisters-in-law and their respective offsprings lived off of his bounty seven days in the week, and objected to the class of food he fed them, he thought it was crowding the mourners just a little and he kicked.

"The whole trouble is due," he said, "to my objections to my wife's family living upon me. There are three brothers and three sisters, and they have children. I told my wife I didn't want them around. Her charges are false and unfounded. She wants me to banish my two boys, Thomas and James, and I will not have that. I have always given her everything that she needed, and have tried to make a happy home for her."

Attorney R. M. Fitzgerald has taken charge of Hart's case.

At the Oakland Theater.

Crowded houses have been the rule at every performance this week at the Oakland Theater. The performance is one of superior merit. "The Bottom of the Sea," is one of the most superb spectacular dramas ever presented on any stage. There is also a clever plot with the scenic features, and the company is an excellent one.

Notwithstanding the success of this piece it will only be produced three nights longer, and on Monday night it will give way to a thrilling drama, enlivening melodies, catchy songs and elaborate and expensive scenery. The popular prices charged at the Oakland, makes it possible for everybody to attend these performances.

IS HE A LUNATIC,

JOHN BOYD GIVES THE REASONS WHY THERE

Has Not Yet Been Any Appointment of Postmaster by President Cleveland.

Is He a Lunatic?

EDITOR GAZETTE:—Will you kindly inform your many readers that as I have had a falling out with the powers that be at Washington, it will be useless for me to intercede or use my influence to obtain any office or favors. The coolness between President Cleveland and myself was all caused by my good nature and anxiety to oblige.

Sometime ago a friend asked me to sign a petition asking for the appointment of a Mr. V—— for postmaster of Berkeley. Always ready to oblige I affixed my signature to the petition and the incident was soon forgotten. A few days later a gentleman said to me, "Here Boyd, sign this petition of ex-Postmaster B—— to be our next postmaster." Not for a moment thinking about the other petition, I attached my autograph to the petition and this occurrence was soon forgotten.

A short time afterwards my old friend and shipmate Charley K—— came to me and said, "Here Boyd, sign my petition for Postmaster of Berkeley, will you?" Why of course I would and did, not thinking for a moment what a pit I was digging for myself.

Of course all the petitions were forwarded to Washington, and it happened that my friend Charley K——'s got there first.

Grover opened it and saw my name. He at once summoned the Cabinet and stated the matter to them said that as Boyd's name was attached to Mr. K——'s petition courtesy demanded that he should be appointed at once. Accordingly the President announced "All in favor of the appointment of Charley K——for Postmaster of Berkeley say aye, contrary no. The ayes have it and the Secretary of State will please fill out the appointment and I will sign it. Meeting stands adjourned."

The credentials appointing K—— to the postmastership of Berkeley were sent to the President's house that morning for him to sign, but it happened that little Ruth had knocked the ink bottle down and broke it, spilling the ink all over the Brussels carpet I gave Mrs. Cleveland as a wedding present; consequently he could not sign the appointment just then.

Mrs. Cleveland sent the hired girl over to the next door neighbor to borrow some ink, but the lady of the house had gone out and it could not be procured. Grover was going to send down to the corner grocery store and get a new bottle, but Mrs. Cleveland suggested that as the last month's grocery bill had not been paid, she did not think the groceryman would credit them for a bottle of ink, so Grover went down to the post office to mail the document. Just as he had come to this conclusion the door bell rang, and a messenger from the Department of State handed him Mr. V——'s petition. The President was about to throw it in the waste basket, when he happened to catch sight of my name.

The President was thunderstruck and exclaimed "Cheese and Rice," or something that sounded like that, and carried on awful, so bad that Mrs. C. was afraid that the neighbors might have him arrested for disturbing the peace. After quieting down a little, she called up the hired man (who slept in the barn) and told him to light a lantern and go and call the Members of the Cabinet together. Just as he had got to the door in came another messenger with B—'s petition. The President took one glance at it saw my name and went off into hysterics. Secretary Morton arrived at this juncture and placed ice on his head and he gradually revived. An informal discussion took place and it was decided to have Boyd examined before the Commissioners of Lunacy, and to make no appointment until their report was received.

JOHN E. BOYD.

Golden Gate.

J. H. Jurgens of San Pablo avenue is still very ill with a complication of diseases and his condition is considered very critical by his friends.

The ten year old son of Mr. King of the Stockyards, while returning from school in some way tumbled down the bank of the creek here and broke his right arm in two places.

The journeymen butchers here at the Stockyards are preparing to organize a skating match to which an admission fee shall be charged, the proceeds to go to Mr. Roach of East Berkeley, a former employee here, who has for some time been seriously ill.

Mrs. Bernhuzer has again returned to her position as school janitress and Jack Drummond, who served for her, during the illness of her family, has again returned to his post as clerk in Page's hotel.

James Hall is putting up a neat residence on his recently acquired property on Felton street.

The snowballing craze nearly caused a disastrous runaway here Tuesday. The team of William Thomas, irritated by continuous pelting, started to run and threw the driver from his seat and was only prevented from making a general wreck of things by the activity of passing citizens.

Mrs. E. W. Riner from Grass Valley writes to a friend here that she will shortly return to this, her former home, and make it her place of residence, while her husband goes further afield, probably to Cripple Creek, Col., in search of work.

Mr. and Mrs. Brame of Twelfth street are having their residence thoroughly renovated, painted papered and grained.

The nail business, which was started a month or two since at the Judson Iron Works, is constantly increasing in volume and importance. From twelve to fifteen tons of nails per day are now being turned out, and this output will be increased as rapidly as the company can manufacture machines for that purpose.

J. W. Linglelcer of Eleventh street is putting an addition to his store.

Miss Irwin, one of the teachers here, residing in Oakland, was taken suddenly ill in her school room Wednesday, and had to be removed to her home.

RIOTS IN ITALY.

CLEVELAND SUMMONS ARMY OFFICERS TO WASHINGTON.

A Man Who Shot a Constable Yesterday Barricades Himself and Defies the Officers.

Special dispatches to the GAZETTE.

Riots in Italy.

Rome, Mar. 6.—The excitement and anger brought about by the reverses in Africa, for which the Crispi ministry is held directly responsible, are unabated. Mobs in various cities of the kingdom show their displeasure in disorder and by destroying property. A number of men have been injured and many arrests have been made.

A mob at Milan marched to the railway station last evening and smashed the windows and took possession in order to prevent the departure of troops reported about to start for Africa. The report was unfounded but that did not quiet the mob. The troops finally drove them out.

The Prefect of Milan this morning issued a proclamation forbidding the people to gather in crowds or to march in groups.

Members of the Right have given notice of their intention to move in the Chamber of Deputies a resolution demanding a complete abandonment of the Italian colony of Erythrea, in Abyssinia.

A Military Commission.

Chicago, Mar. 6.—General Wesley Merritt, Commander of the Department of the Missouri, has been summoned to Washington for conference with the President and his advisers on a secret misson of importance. At army headquarters last night it was said that President Cleveland contemplates sending a military commission to Cuba to examine into the condition of affairs on the island, and it is surmised that General Merritt is to be intrusted with the leadership of the commission.

Besides General Merritt several other high officers of the army have been suddenly summoned to Washington. It is possible that they are to consult with the Presiden and Secretary of War as to the best means of mobilizing the United States troops in the event of war. It is suggested that if a single commissioner is sent to Cuba it would be a military man, as his investigation would have to be principally on a military character. It would not surprise those who regard the sending of a commission as probable if General Merritt were selected. He is a friend of the President. He is third in rank in the army, a distinguished soldier and moreover possesses a judicial temperament.

Will Not Give In.

Bellefonte, March 6—The situation at Woodward this morning is unchanged. William Ettlinger, who yesterday, in resisting arrest, shot Constables Barner and Geiswhite, is still barricaded in his house with his family and defies arrest. He uses his gun frequently.

The house is surrounded by 200 persons, all, however, at a safe distance. The Sheriff has sent for 200 additional well armed deputies and a new supply of ammunition. If Ettlinger is captured alive lynching is likely.

The War In Cuba.

Madrid, Mar. 6.—The arsenal at Cadiz is being worked to its fullest capacity in the manufacture of guns and cartridges for artillery, etc. The greatest activity prevails. Meetings were held at Valladolid, Granada and Ovidio last night.

SLIGHTLY MISTAKEN.

We had occasion a few days ago to criticise a paper that was read by the Rev. J. D. Foster of Lorin, before the Monday Congregational Club, in which he criticised the daily newspapers saying that their chief aim was to publish scandals about Protestant Ministers. The Rev. gentleman answers back through our evening contemporary in which he states that as this was the second time that he has been attacked by the editor of the GAZETTE, that the editor doubtless thinks "There's money in it."

In this Mr. Foster is mistaken, for personally we have nothing against him, but when he attacks the profession to which we belong and makes so many misstatements, we feel that we have a right to answer him and show that he is wrong and this we did, quoting from the paper which he read before the Congregational Club.

A FRIEND TO BERKELEY.

County Clerk Frank C. Jordan has been more than kind to the people of Berkeley since his election to the office that he now holds. As soon as he took charge of his office he recognized Berkeley at once by selecting our fellow citizen, George Woodsum, as one of his deputies. Just previous to the last bond election Mr. Jordan had instructions to cancel the Great Register. Knowing that Berkeley was soon to have an election he sent word to President Richards and Attorney Hayne to meet him in conference with the Board of Supervisors to see whether the date of cancelation could not be postponed until after the bond election was held. This was done, although it greatly inconvenienced Mr. Jordan. Now that another election has been called he is doing everything in his power to get every voter in Berkeley on the Great Register, in order that no one may be deprived of a vote at the coming bond election. Finding that there was a difference of opinion as to whether he could certify to the registration of Berkeley without certifying to the registration of the whole county, he is now trying to ascertain, at his own expense, whether the old register cannot be used.

The people of Berkeley have cause to think a great deal of Mr. Jordan, and when he asks for future political preferment he can depend upon a unanimous vote from the town of Berkeley.

FOR NATIONAL DELEGATE.

There is a fight on hand between the old and young Republicans of Alameda County as to who shall be a delegate to the National Republican Convention to be held in St. Louis, next June. The younger element of the party want to send Dr. E. H. Pardee, ex-Mayor of Oakland, while the older element desire to send Senator Eli Denison. Both men are good representative Republicans, but we think that Senator Eli Dennison would have a great deal more influence among the eastern delegates as he is much better known both personally and by reputation. That he is a railroad man cuts no figure in the case unless it be that through that fact he is better known to political men than is Mr. Pardee. Senator Dennison has been twice elected State Senator in Alameda county, and during every session of the Legislature he has faithfully represented his constituency irregardless of his railroad affiliations.

His business is connected with the railroad as is Wells, Fargo, or any other person who has to use the railroads for transportation. He has the privilege of selling books, papers, fruit, nuts etc. on all the trains and for this privilege he pays the company $30,000 per year. He is not a stockholder in the company, nor has he anything to say in its management, consequently he should not be turned down as a railroad man. We believe that the best interests of the Republican party in Alameda would besserved by sending Mr. Dennison to St. Louis as a delegate to the National Republican Convention.

Mr. Dennison has been closely identified with the interestes of the Republican party in this county for almost a quarter of a century and has spent both his time and money for the success of the party and he should now be honored by being selected as a delegate to the National Convention.

From all indications the coming election for school bonds in the sum of $60,000 will be a successful one. We have conversed with several who were opposed to the $120,000 bonds, who are now in favor of the $60,000 proposition. Nearly everybody concedes that Berkeley is greatly in need of more primary and grammar schools, and they will vote for bonds in order that they may be built. We hope that this good feeling now manifested toward the bonds may keep on increasing until election day and that when the votes are counted there may not be a single vote against the proposition. We believe that if those who are opposed to the bonds will investigate for themselves the crowded condition of the schools, they will become ardent supporters of the bonds.

Only those persons under twenty-one or over sixty years of age are exempt. Poll tax must be paid on demand.

SOUTH AFRICAN LIONS.

They Are, It Is Said, the Boldest of All Predatory Animals.

South African lions are, beyond question, the boldest of all predatory animals, and those of Mashonaland are perhaps the boldest of all. During the night, their natural hunting time, they attack draft animals, or even men, within a few yards of the campfires, and are a constant and serious danger to travelers in districts remote from the main tracks of traders. From the Zambezi, through Mashonaland, and north to the Limpopo a chorus of complaints rises in the pages of recent travelers whose cattle or followers have suffered from their attacks. Mr. Selous has recorded the pursuit of the post from Salisbury by a lion, and the loss of the mail bags, which the animal tore from the back of the pack horse. Mr. Millais, who crossed the Nuanetsi river with a team of eight donkeys to draw his wagon—the oxen being—left behind on account of the proximity of the "fly" country—lost three in one night by a lion attack, carried out with the utmost contempt for human beings, whether white or black. He was awakened by the lion's roar, and almost immediately saw one of the tethered donkeys knocked over. It was not five yards from the fire, but in the darkness and dazzle of the fire he could not see the attacker. "We knew instinctively that a lion had killed the donkey, and was standing over him not five yards from where we were, but it was hopeless to fire unless we saw something, or at least could make certain of his whereabouts."

This odd scene continued for some moments, the actors being four or five black men, two white men, a pony, seven live donkeys and a dead one, and the lion standing over the latter, with a fire partly lighting up the figures, until a couple more donkeys broke loose. They rushed into a mealie field, and there the party heard the lion chasing first one donkey and then another, as excited and as little afraid as a dog chasing rabbits in a field of barley. "At every bound the lion emitted a subdued 'boo-uff,' as his fore legs struck the ground, but the two did not go far. There were presently a loud scuffle, a crack and the sound of a heavy body falling; then all was still." The lion chased the third donkey round the camp, killed and ate it, and was next day shot by an ingenious trap, made by tying a rifle to posts, and fastening a string to the trigger, which the lion struck when revisiting its "kill." The unsportsmanlike method of compassing its death is excused by Captain Millais on the ground of necessity. This lion was 10 feet long from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail, was in perfect health and immensely formidable.—London Spectator.

A CONJURER'S TALE OF WOE.

Confederate Produced a Handful of Change Instead of a Marked Dollar.

Carl Hertz, the illusionist, was talking of some of the accidents that sometimes spoil the art of the conjuror.

"It was in Nashville," he said, "that I experienced a real knock down blow. I was performing the well-known trick of passing a marked coin into the center of an uncut orange; at least that's what a good many people thought I was doing. I used a silver dollar, and emphasized the trick by passing the coin into the pocket of some boy whom I had enticed on to the stage.

"I will openly confess that the boy had to be a confederate, and that the marked dollar had its fellow in one previously prepared by me. One night, as I was entering the theater, I looked around for a likely youth to aid me in my double dealing. I picked a boy and promised to pass him in if he would follow my instructions.

"'I am a conjurer,' I said. 'I want you to put this dollar in your right hand trousers pocket. I'll get you a seat in the front row. When I ask for somebody to come on the stage, you must come. Then I will ask you to produce the dollar.'

"The boy promised everything, and, after making arrangements for him at the door, I left him. When I was ready for the dollar trick, I saw my young confederate sitting open mouthed in the front row. I had prevailed upon another member of the audience to lend me a dollar marked exactly as was that I had given to the boy.

"I passed that borrowed dollar into the orange, out the fruit open, and out dropped the coin. Then I went on:

"'And now, ladies and gentlemen, I will perform a still more difficult feat. I have passed that dollar into an orange. Now I will ask some member of the audience to step on the stage, and, without going anywhere near him, I will pass the same dollar, marked, as you have seen, into his right hand trousers pocket.'

"True to his bargain, the boy stepped to the stage. I stepped opposite him and asked:

"'Now, sir, have you ever seen me before?'

"'No, sir,' was the answer.

"'I have here a dollar,' I continued. 'I am going to pass it into your right hand trousers pocket. One—two—three—go!'

"I made the proper magician's pass and smiled confidently upon my audience.

"'Now,' I said to my assistant, 'put your hand into your right hand trousers pocket and give me the dollar.'

"The boy looked a bit sheepish, but he dived his fist down. Then, to my unutterable horror, he produced a handful of silver and said:

"'I've only got 90 cents of it left, sir.'

"I went out in a hurry and took a drink."—New York Times.

A man one morning at family prayers prayed for a good neighbor in great destitution. After the prayer his boy said to him, "Papa, give me your pocketbook, and I will go over to Mr. Smith's and answer your prayer myself."—Louisville Western Recorder.

ELECTRICITY IN THE EARTH.

Is It the Awful Force That Will Finally Destroy the World?

"Take a spade, turn up a small quantity of soil, hold a portion in your hand, hold it to your ear, then smell it. You will observe first a slight motion, hear a faint sound as of the moving of distant timber, and readily notice the odor of heat. Do you know that the forces held in your hand are from electricity; that the earth for three feet deep is alive with the invisible power and forms the secret of vegetable life? Waves of electricity are constantly passing through the soil in unseen billows, thus keeping the soil from souring, as the billows of the ocean keep the waters from becoming stagnant. To demonstrate this fact, go to some rock bound pool, dip out a small quantity of the polluted water, place it in a bottle, cork and set aside in a warm place for a short time. Then take the bottle into a dark room, shake the bottle, draw out the cork, and you will see tiny forks of blue lightning shoot out from the bottle, and if you keep perfectly quiet you will hear faint mutterings like thunder. This comes from the flintlike rocks preventing the unbroken flow of electricity through the soil and from the air becoming charged and emptying itself into the water.

"Electricity, as is being gradually shown, is fire—the fire of friction, if you will, the first known by the inhabitants of our globe. Look at an arc lamp and see its combined sparks as they emit from the carbons so swiftly that they are taken for a regular flame of eye bedazzling light. In the ages to come the charge of electricity will keep on accumulating until some commotion of the earth will cause it to ignite, when, in the twinkling of an eye, our world, with all it contains, will be enwrapped and consumed by a conflagration that will startle if not frighten the inhabitants of other planets as they look down upon the flaming mass and see burn up one of the greatest works of the Almighty's creation."—Philadelphia Times.

CREDITED MISS ROCKEFELLER.

She Couldn't Quite Understand Why the Shopman Was So Gracious.

A pretty story is told of Mrs. Harold McCormick while she was Miss Edith Rockefeller, showing the simple manner in which she regarded her father's great wealth.

The incident occurred when she was a pupil at one of the fashionable New York schools. She, with a party of girls from her class, presented herself at a certain furniture dealer's to choose a gift for a favorite teacher. The price of the pretty writing desk, however, was more than the sum in their possession. The girls suggested that if the desk was sent they would forward the balance as soon as possible.

The proprietor very politely, but also very decidedly, informed the girls that he could not do as they asked. "But," he said, "if you can think of any New York business man with whom any of your fathers are acquainted and who will vouch for you the matter may possibly be arranged."

"Why," said the daughter of the great petroleum magnate, "I think my papa has an office down on Broadway. Possibly we can get the money there."

"Who is your father?" queried the dealer.

"His name is Rockefeller," replied the girl simply; "John D. Rockefeller. He is in the bil business."

The merchant gasped and looked at the girl is amazement. "John D. Rockefeller your father? Is John D. Rockefeller good for $25?" he repeated in excitement.

Then he recovered his presence of mind sufficiently to order the desk packed up and sent immediately, while Miss Edith, very much astonished at his unwonted excitement, thanked him with pretty and simple grace.—Philadelphia Press.
